DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species: The species are independent or distinct because the technical features of one are not required by the other, and vice versa.

Independent claim 1 is directed towards a computer-programming method wherein a demonstration tool includes a library of widgets, and editor and an inference engine, whereby a control program and a user interface of the control program are programmed at the same time, wherein code is created using the inference engine, the code being used to control an automation process.

Independent claim 8 is directed towards a computer-programming product for performing the method described in Independent claim 1.

Newly filed Independent claim 20 is directed towards a computer-programming method for programming a control program and a user interface at the same time, wherein the programming includes demonstrating the behavior of widgets.

It is noted that newly filed Independent claim 20 is much broader than Independent claims 1 and 8, and appears to be generic to claims 1 and 8. However, newly filed dependent claims 21-23 present features that are not disclosed by any of the other pending dependent claims (2-7 and 9-19). Therefore, dependent claims 2-7 and 9-19 represent one species of a computer-programming method/system and dependent claims 21-23 represent another species of a programming method. That is, a feature that is required by the computer-programming method of dependent claim 21 (a complex behavior requiring more than one pair of state and outcome state) is not required by the methods disclosed in pending claims 2-7 and 9-19.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, newly filed Independent claim 20 is believed to be generic.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
